Innovative design details are abundantly incorporated into each of the custom remodeling projects featured in this rural home. The custom home has been both originally built and also remodeled by T. Hurt Construction, Inc. For over a decade the family has been adding improvements to their acreage residence to enhance the home's character and beauty, as well as provide the active family with a place to relax and enjoy time together.

Most recently the homeowners' passion for remodeling has inspired the updating and renovation of their kitchen. A dramatic new working and dining island anchors an intricately constructed custom oak column. The artistic column supports headers which are all discreetly designed into an elaborately oak-trimmed ceiling, accented with specialty faux paint. Special attention to details such as task and accent lighting, island prep-sink and appliance locations, black titanium granite countertop, and a new custom tile backsplash complete the elegant kitchen remodel.

Descending to the lower level, guests will be greeted by the friendly faces of Hollywood and sport legends, which are depicted on custom, hand-painted wall murals. No detail was overlooked – from the stained, painted concrete floors to the stacked-stone columns, from the custom bar and wine room to the remodeled bath complete with urinal – the homeowners' personal style is reflected.

Additional features constructed by T. Hurt Construction that shouldn't be missed include a cabana-house with in-ground pool and diving board, kids' playroom in the finished attic above garage, outdoor patio with kitchen grill and fire-pit, and ornamental gated entrance. The acreage residence has truly been transformed into a family retreat.
